

- Notices: Notices from Secure Technician are posted on the website and are considered delivered 30 days after posting. Your notices should be sent by mail and are deemed received 5 days after mailing.
- Copyright: All website content belongs to Secure Technician. You may view, copy, or print materials for informational purposes, provided you retain the copyright notice.
- Trademarks: Brand and product names on the site are trademarks of their respective owners. Using them doesn't imply endorsement or legal rights from Secure Technician.
- Terms of Use: The site includes proprietary notices and may contain errors. Info like prices and availability can change without notice. Secure Technician can refuse service or cancel orders if they suspect unlawful or harmful conduct.
- Privacy & Copyright: Similar to the notices above. Content accuracy isn't guaranteed—content may be outdated, inaccurate, or incomplete.
- Disclaimers & Warranties: Content is provided "as is" without warranties of merchantability, fitness, or non-infringement. Secure Technician isn't liable for damages resulting from using the site or its content, including indirect or consequential damages.
- Sales Tax: Applied based on shipping location and applicable state laws.
- Return & Payment Policies: You can purchase services/products using specified payment methods. Payment procedures may change, and the terms can be updated without notice.
- Legal & Jurisdiction: Laws of the state where Secure Technician is based govern any disputes. The parties waive jury trial rights, and legal actions must be filed in specified courts.
- General: These terms replace any previous agreements. Not all products or services are available everywhere. Any invalid provision doesn't affect the rest of the terms.